That's it for today! See you next time!

Dictation Contest (PR 1, 中級) No. 1023

Hi, everyone! Welcome back to PR1.

[In the] previous video, we learned that crocodiles are now in danger.

Luckily, for the crocodiles, people realized that a world without them would just not be the same, and now they have been officially declared an endangered species.

"It is illegal to kill crocodiles," says conservationist Charles Swaby, who has spent the last thirty years protecting the Jamaican crocodiles. The problem is that when farm animals are killed by crocodiles, farmers ignore the law and kill them. This is what Charles is fighting against. "Crocodiles are much more scared of us than we are of them. They are scary but lovely to watch." he adds. If Charles, and others like him, can convince the world to share this opinion, crocodiles will be with us forever.

That's it! See you!

Dictation Contest (PR2 上級) No. 1023

Hello, everyone! Welcome back to PR 2!

Today I will talk about a sightseeing spot in Canada. Let's begin!

One of the most stunning sights in all of Canada is British Columbia's Inside Passage. A protected stretch of ocean running from southern BC to Alaska, over fifteen-hundred kilometers of coastline, the Inside Passage is undoubtedly, one of the most breathtaking areas in the world to take an ocean cruise. It is rightfully at the top of many people's travel bucket list. With Discover Canada Tours, we will take you through the most beautiful and marine-rich sections on the Inside Passage, from Port Hardy to Prince Rupert, within British Columbia, Canada. This day-long ocean cruise is a once-in-a-lifetime experience for many people. The cruise operates only in the daylight hours – for the best sightseeing – for most of the year, making the trip between Port Hardy on Vancouver Island to Prince Rupert on BC's mainland in about 16 hours.

As the name suggests, the Inside Passage snakes inside an ocean passageway, otherwise known as a fjord. The beautiful, towering green giants of the Coastal Mountains loom up beside you as you make your way through the passage. There aren't many places in the world where you can take an ocean cruise surrounded by mountains!

That's all for today! See you!
